Interstate State Park | Taylors Falls | Minnesota

General Information

MMEW is a workshop for K-12 Earth Science educators and pre-service teachers. In adapting to the times, this year it will be held outdoors for a one-day event at Interstate State Park along the Wild and Scenic St. Croix River.

This workshop will offer short course topics, walking tours, and a narrated boat excursion led by the state's leading geologists from Winona State University, the Minnesota Geological Survey, the Minnesota DNR, industry representatives, and others!

Come and enjoy the region's 1-billion-year geologic history ranging from volcanoes, tropical oceans, glaciers, and MN's mineral resources.

You will receive teaching materials including rock and mineral samples, lesson plan ideas, posters, maps, and other useful resources.

The event will happen rain or shine, so pack your field boots and jacket!
